

A baby turtle is at the foot of a tall tree.

With a sigh, he begins to climb.

An hour later, he's high up in the tree.

Then, spreading his flippers, he jumps and lands on the soft leaves below.

He then walks slowly over to the tree and starts to climb.

An hour later, he's high up in the tree again.

He spreads his flippers and jumps.

When he lands, he goes to the tree, and with a sigh, starts to climb.

Watching from the tree are two little birds.

Mummy bird says to daddy bird, "Don't you think it's time we told him he was adopted?"