That summer feeling

Dear Colleagues

Chinese whispers (p. 1), fun with new words (p. 2), a dictation with a "twist" (p. 3), a summer walk through London (copy file) – these are some of the light-hearted activities that we have lined up for you this month. In "Talking teaching", we are pleased to introduce Jane Hill, who recently decided to give up her permanent part-time job as a primary-school teacher. Go to page 5 to learn more. We'd be pleased to hear your feedback.

If you have a large class, divide it into balanced teams of about four people.
 *Whisper the first line of the dialogue on page 44 that begins: "Paula, so, where shall we stay?" to a representative from each team. They memorize the line and whisper it to the next person in their group, and so on down the line. The final student writes down what he or she hears on a piece of paper. When they are ready the representative returns to you for the next line of the dialogue. Continue until: "Paula... it's really bad." (p. 45)
 - At the end of the activity, ask students to read out their versions. Then they turn to pages 44-45 in their magazines and read the original dialogue. How do both versions compare?
 - The entire article can be read as homework.
